

California Consumer Privacy Act (CCPA) Notice At Collection

The CCPA requires businesses to give consumers certain information in a “notice at collection.” A notice at collection must list the categories of personal information businesses collect about consumers and the purposes for which they use the categories of information.

Cartamundi Group (“we” or “us”) collects the following personal data about consumers: first name and last name, email address, phone number, password, or credentials allowing access to an account, and cookies and usage data. This data is collected to process transactions, comply with laws, manage our business, or provide services. Note that we do not use such data for any purposes that are not identified within the California Privacy Rights Act Section 1798.121. We do not “sell” or “share” sensitive personal data for cross-context behavioural advertising.

To opt-out of online tracking based targeted advertising (e.g., cookies) by clicking the “Your Privacy Choices” in the footer. Note that if you change your browsers or devices, or if you clear your browser’s cache, you may need to click the link again to apply your preference. We recognize Global Privacy Control (GPC) signals enabled by customers on their browser or browser extension as valid opt-out requests where required by applicable law. Please note that your opt-out preference signal will be applied only to your current browser and device. For more information on GPC, visit Global Privacy Control.

For more information about how personal data is collected and processed by us please see our Privacy Policy.
